

Special Feature: A People's History of Postwar Japan and America

- Opening Thoughts* by Masayuki Tadokoro 8
- The "Scent" of America Experienced by Japanese Intellectuals*
by Naoyuki Agawa 16
—How did Japanese intellectuals studying at American universities after World War II see America? What did they find good and what did they reject?
- America in Japanese Culture: From Literature to Jazz*
by Michael S. Molasky 33
—Examining the "American shadow" cast on Japan as seen in Occupation literature and the embrace of jazz.
- The Japanese Intoxication with Hollywood*
by Saburo Kawamoto 45
—Why were Hollywood movies greeted so rapturously in Japan at the end of World War II?
- The Fragile Ascendancy of Cool Japan*
by Yasushi Watanabe 56
—The impact of "Cool Japan" won't last forever. Looking at the Cool Japan phenomenon and issues for the future.
- A History of Nongovernmental Exchange-of-Person Programs Between the United States and Japan*
by Tadashi Yamamoto 66
—The author, himself a pioneer in international exchange, reviews the human history of US-Japan exchange over the past half-century.
- A Relationship of Trust Crossing National Borders: The Case of Postwar Bankers*
by Shijuro Ogata 79
—The author has learned, based on over fifty years of interchange with the American financial community, that the key factor is trust between individuals.
- The Perception Gap Regarding American Bases in Japan*
by Noboru Yamaguchi 87
—America furnishing the personnel and Japan the land—probing the origins and intractability of the base problem.

Japanese and Americans Thinking about Asia:

A Discussion with Professor Joseph Nye

Participants: Joseph S. Nye, Jr., Masayuki Tadokoro, Akihiko Tanaka and David A. Welch

100

Essays

Basil Hall Chamberlain and Japanese Poetry

by Toru Haga

118

Art and the Eye of the Beholder: Apollinaire and Surrealism

by Shuji Takashina

122

Correspondence on Current Thought

Mandarin 2.0 by Mark Lilla

128

Distortions of Democracy by Alexander Stille

135

Manga Studies in Europe by Junko Saeki

141

The American Republic in Crisis? by Shigeki Uno

151

Immigration and the Testing of Liberalism by Ken Endo

159

South Korea and Its Neighbors by Shunji Hiraiwa

168

Empathy, Past and Future by Juichi Yamagiwa

177

Essays

An Age of Excessive Absolutism?

by Hiroshi Watanabe

188

The Vulgarity of Tourist Spots

by Terunobu Fujimori

192

Reflections Prompted by Addressing Envelopes

by Daisaburo Okumoto

196

Mythology and Dance: An Essay in the History of Civilization (the sixth in a series)

by Masakazu Yamazaki

200

—An attempt to trace our increasingly universalized contemporary civilization back to far-away ancient history and to see the history of human civilization as a coherent progression.